New York, Jan. 6, 1873.

My Dear Garrison,

Enclosed find the receipt for your subscription for the Christian Union.
It encloses for you the two beautiful Chromos, "Asleep" and "Awake," which, if you do not care to retain them for yourself, will be a nice present to some friends.

I am not yet fairly warmed
into my new place, which is one beset with some peculiar difficulties that I hope to master ere long. I think I shall like the situation when I get well acquainted with its duties.
And this reminds me to say that I want to number you among the writers for the Christian Union, the circulation of which is double that of the Independent.

Mrs. Savin joins me in messages of love to you and your family.

Your missing letter, of which I spoke on Saturday, has not come, and I am puzzled to think what can have become of it. Are you sure it was mailed?

Yours, with all my heart,

Oliver Johnson.
